

Nuffield Department of Population Health Annual Symposium
Saïd Business School, Oxford.
Wednesday 27 March 2019

Presentations by members of HERC

Plenary Session

- Philip Clarke: Price is what you pay, value is what you get: How drug prices impact on population health

5-by-5 Talks (5 slides in 5 minutes)

Sarah Wordsworth and Liz Stokes both chaired sessions which included presentations by;

- Filipa Landeiro: Losing capacity: who should report quality of life?
- Helen Dakin: Who should be referred for hip or knee replacement? Personalising medicine using PROMs, cost-effectiveness and big data.
- Iryna Schlackow: What is the value of LDL cholesterol lowering in chronic kidney disease?
- Ramón Luengo-Fernandez: Healthcare costs associated with bleeding on long-term antiplatelet treatment in secondary prevention after vascular events - PPI: good idea after a vascular event.

Speed Geeking (10 minute small group presentations)

Filipa Landeiro chaired a session which included presentations by;

- Ines Rombach: Costing what? Experiences from the cost-effectiveness analysis of a placebo surgery trial.
- James Buchanan: The doctor will text you now: do we care who prescribes our antibiotics?
- Mi Jun Keng: Is the UKPDS Outcomes Model applicable for contemporary well-managed diabetes patients?
- Apo Tsiachristas: Effective coverage and budget implications of skill-mix change to improve neonatal nursing care in Kenya: an explorative simulation study.
- Koen Pouwels: More fuel for the 'Should you finish your antibiotic course?' debate: doctors are frequently prescribing longer courses than recommended.
- Seamus Kent: Is doctoral referral to a low-energy total diet replacement programme cost-effective for the treatment of obesity in routine care?